In Honor of

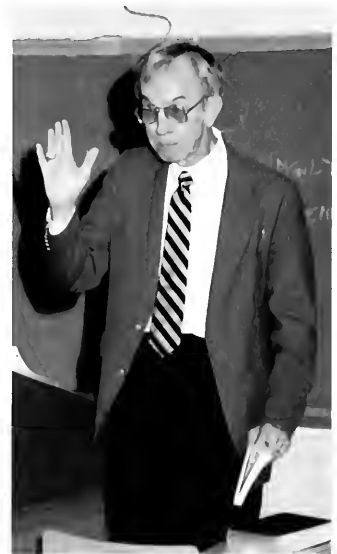

Mr. Cliff Bedell

"Cliff Bedell lives what he teaches. He has made boldness and graciousness an art form. He is a professor with the humble thirst of a student. His eyes scan the horizons while he listens with patience. He is a missionary on temporary assignment. He is a blessing to Columbia, and to a generation of world changers."
Johnny V. Miller

"What a privilege to write a dedication for a man I love and respect! Cliff, I appreciate your caring heart and I especially have enjoyed all the times you stopped by my office to chat about a biblical point that intrigued us both. May the Lord continue to bless your ministry among us."
Bryan Beyer

"Dad is my greatest role model. His deep love for God and his radical, no questions asked, commitment to serve Him completely are two areas of his life that have impacted me the most. Dad is a loving husband, an outstanding father and a kind and gentle grandfather. This commitment allows us to enjoy the mercy of God daily. Keep it up Dad! We love YOU!!"
Frank Bedell.

Mr. Bedell often captivates his students and challenges them in daily Christian living.

Mr. Bedell spends time preparing for his classes so that students may reap the benefits of his diligence.

Cliff Bedell is characterized by seriousness of purpose, continuous good humor, excellence in teaching and warmth in relationships. He is a master of the unpredictable. In contrast to his unpredictability is his obvious love for the Savior and passion for the lost. These have been the hallmarks of his ministry for 23 years. Missionary, churchman, family man and faculty member--a godly model."

Dining at CIU is always an adventure. Some students create a more private environment for socializing.

Treasures

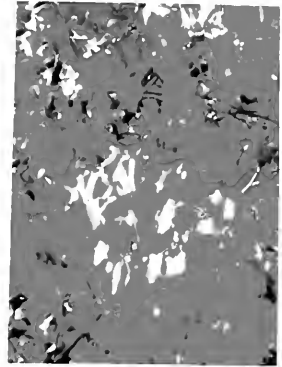

The Pointe is associated with many treasured memories. There is something about the serenity of the view that creates special times for CIU students.

A sunset is a "must" for any CIU student.

To see clearly the Word of God and to unlock its hidden treasures is the goal of being a student at Columbia International University.

The treasures of the Word of God are brought to life through chalk and blacklight.

The artistry of God is perhaps most evident during autumn. Trees all over campus, dappled with sunlight, display a spectrum of colors.

Jodi Braun treasures one of her childhood memories early in the fall semester.

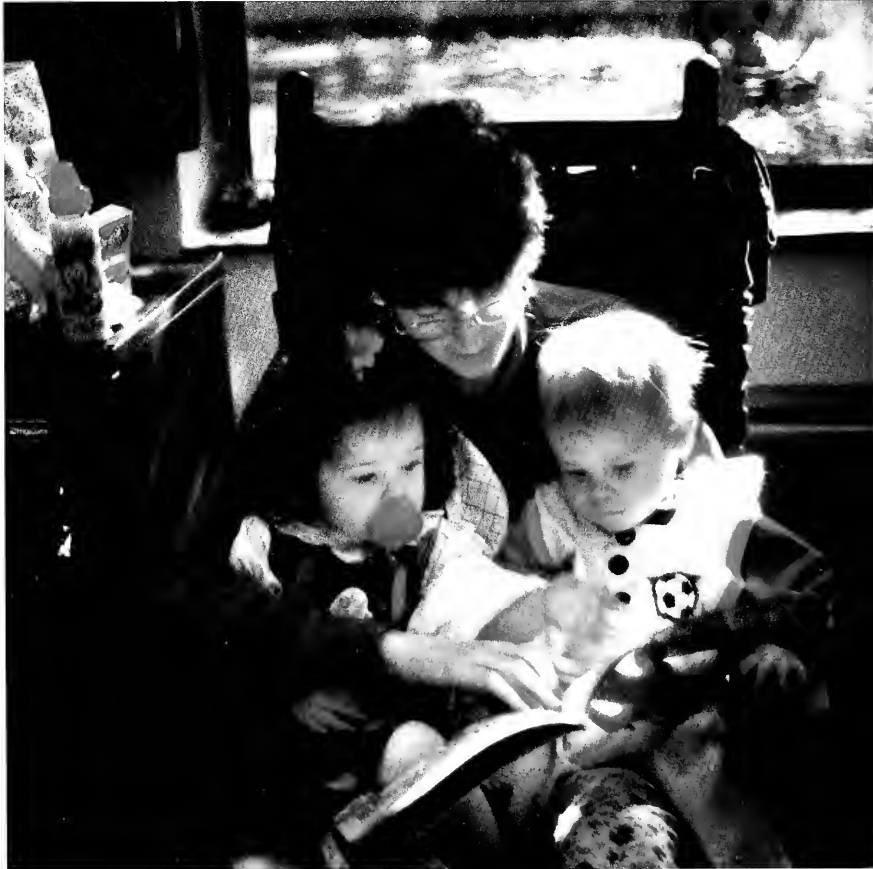

Making the most of the Pointe's view of the sunset, the Go '95 Committee conducts a business meeting while enjoying God's work of art. His treasured earth.

The Prayer Towers are an important part of CIU's history. They continue to hold a special place in the hearts of both students and faculty.

This student gets satisfaction from seeing the smiles on kids' faces after they receive one of her balloon creations at Harvest Fest.

"Let the children alone; and do not hinder them from coming to Me; for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these."
Mt. 19:14

The Finals mark the back entrance to the R.C. McQuilkin Memorial Administration Building. Students are reminded of the college's foundation as they pass by.

Time away from campus at one of Columbia's parks makes for a wonderful Sunday afternoon.

The only walkway between the women's side of campus and the men's is often tread upon.

Jesus spoke:

“Do not lay up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust destroy, and where thieves break in and steal. But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust destroys, and where thieves do not break in or steal; for where your treasure is, there will be your heart also.”

Matthew 6:19-21

Dear Class of '96

It is not a tranquil world to which we send you. It is a frustrated world, a divided world, increasingly a hostile world.

Your calling is to go as servants, under the Lordship of Christ. As someone has said, "We would all like to be thought of as servants, we just don't want to be treated as servants." The most difficult part of being a servant is giving to God our right to choose whom to serve.

But we have great examples of those who gave up that right, to the glory of God. First, there was Christ. We have seen during this year the impenetrable mystery that the eternal God entered time in the form of a servant. And not just an ordinary servant, but as lowly as a slave. The cross was the death of a slave.

And there was also the Apostle Paul. He deleted everything of value in his own account in order to share in the death and resurrection power of Christ.

And there are other examples closer to home--selfless examples among your classmates, as well as CIU's faculty and staff. Mark them well. Ponder them. They are paradigms of godliness in a dark and hostile world.

May God find our service pleasing to Him, the kind that the Savior would render if He were in our place. Because we are in His place.

Johnny V. Miller
President, CIU

Every student knows that Dr. Miller treasures his wife Jeannie even though she is not in the public eye as much as he is!!

Communication between Dr. Miller and the rest of the administration was essential because of Dr. Miller's sabbatical.

Student Life

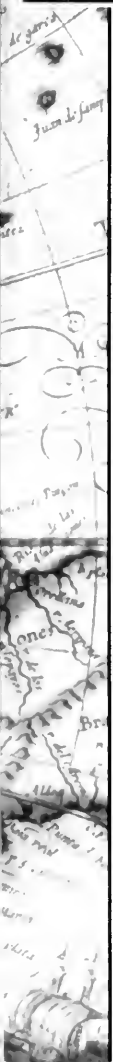

While most of their time as students is spent learning in a classroom or doing homework, Maura Gove and Philip Mutetei discuss their different classes while enjoying the late afternoon sun.

"See Spot run. Run, Spot, run."
(DuPre Bingham)

Girls from both sides of the Mason-Dixon line congratulate one another on an excellent game.

Drew Taylor and Dawn King pull their strengths together to hopefully find the other team's "weakness" during the Unolympics.

Where else could you find Matt Tumey, Jonathan Reibsamen and Marco Perez performing the Limbo while riding invisible horses, except during Esrever?

Hoke Auditorium ... must be a freshmen class.

The computer lab was critical for many students at CIU. Many memories include hours and hours of tedious labor in front of the keyboard.

Classes & Studying

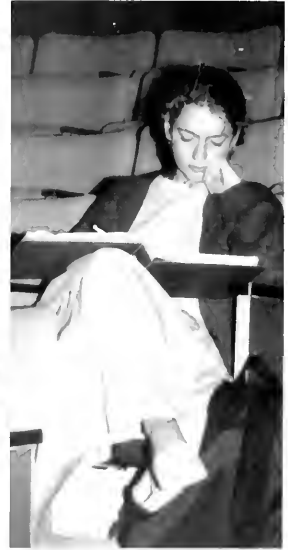

"There's another misspelled word, they really need to use spell check on these handouts."
(Margaret Elias)

Group discussions during class often provided a good atmosphere for educational enrichment and socializing.

David Peterson tries to finish his work up quickly so that he can socialize like Jennifer Harris and Jodi Deming.

The media center lounge proved to be a great place to study with friends.

Jennifer Katona sleeps peacefully now that everyone else has left.

"Supralapsarianism is too a part of Dispensationalism!!"
(David Roller, Patty Koeck)

"Come here my pretty. . ."

"I don't even want to know what I just put my hand in."
(Chad White)

Earning Extra Cash

Rachel Marks attends to the many duties required of the student library workers.

"For 30¢ more, you can super size that!"

Willy Iraheta is so busy glued to his computer screen that not even the photographer's flash moves him.

Smiling Sally silently suffers a side shot as she strivingly scribes!

Andrew Schmauder is knuckles deep in library work.

Representatives from AIM International present CIU with a beautiful picture to commemorate the long-term friendship between the two institutions.

Worship time during chapel is always anticipated and enjoyed.

The visiting gospel choir excites students with their God-glorifying harmonies.

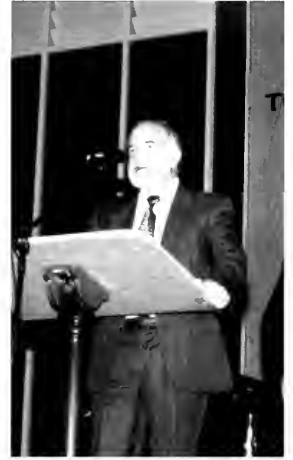

Strange routines have been known to occur each year in the name of "Fun-run" advertising.

Hello, my name is Masashi Yamamoto. I am playing a crucial part in Dennis Cochran's overdramatic, yet intriguing display of Bible translation.

Surrounded by nature and a beautiful view, the Pointe often gives one a feeling of closeness to God during prayer and quiet times.

With prayer being such a vital part of the Christian walk, CIU makes sure there is a prayer group for every-one to participate.

Life is short, pray hard!!

The illuminated Prayer Towers are beautiful reminders to be diligent in prayer.

Faculty members often gather together to pray for the student body, each other, and various prayer requests from the rest of the CIU family.

Praying outside on a nice day is a welcome change for some. Allison Chaney uses God's creation to inspire her prayers.

Prayer

Dr. Layman joins the CBC faculty in prayer at one of their faculty meetings.

Corporate prayer during chapels brought the school closer together as we came before God in unison.

Jim Wilkerson and his family enjoy the grounds of CIU and the weather of South Carolina.

"Gullible...Gullible...I thought it was in here..."
(Eshter McCloy)

Jill Merry and Tracy Casen share a special moment together.

$40,000 and 4 years and you should learn something. I did! Most of my learning came from God. However, I learned from my professors to use my mind. God commands us to "Love the Lord you God with all your heart, soul, and mind" (Mt. 22:37). We are supposed to love God with our minds, which means growing in the knowledge of truth. Knowing that all truth is God's truth, we are to seek and find what is true.

The second thing I learned came during a difficult time in my life. God brought me to Ps. 145 and verse eighteen stood out, "The Lord is near to all those who call out to Him, to all who call out to Him in truth." The same concept is found in Jer. 29:13. To find God we must seek him with everthing we are, and like Jacob, not give up until we have hold of him.

Finally, because God is always shaping me into Christ's image, He is teaching me that my attitude toward sin has to be the same as His, and my actions should bear this out. I must depend on God! The difficult thing about dependence is that it is a position of weakness, you are not in control. But in my weakness, He is strong. It is the hardest lesson yet, but I suspect that they won't get any easier from here. - Jason Fallin

Diversity

What is harder than doing your hermanutics assignments? Doing them in another language! These graduate international students will return to their homelands as national missionaries. However, during their time here they become treasured friends.

Paul Nicorvo and Bill Howell take time to fellowship on a beautiful day. Grad students treasure God's provision in providing a home at CIU.

"I understand your predicament Sam (Goodwin), but I can only allow you to drop three classes." Amy Helm looks on while Dr. Mulholland signs Sam's drop/add form.

Is it really worth it? (Dean Casey and Jeff Six dress for Esrever.)

Inherent or inherited? Amy Helm ponders the great questions brought up in seminary class.

"I'm just talking to her!" The stressful response of a student living in a fishbowl! Dan Button and Karen Fancher talk between classes.

Graduate students from many backgrounds find friendships that will last a lifetime at CIU. In this case Harvest Fest is an opportunity to take a study break and get to know each other.

Interaction

Ours the Joy (Mt. 14:15-20)

Ours the joy to realize
All our precious Saviour did;
Life eternal was the prize-
So may we in Him be hid.

Ours the joy to visualize
All our blessed Lord requires-
Breaking bonds of worldly ties,
Rending chains of self-desires.

Ours the joy to see Him take
All we have and are - indeed
Multiply it, bless and break
Feed the multitude in need.

Our the joy to see our Lord
Make abound, to running o'er;
When we take Him at His word,
He will bless us, more and more.

Mildred Sadler

Leann Landreth celebrates a birthday with friends. It is nice to know someone loves you when you can't be with your family.

I'm gonna eat your face! Dr. Moon and Jody Falloni have a discussion after class

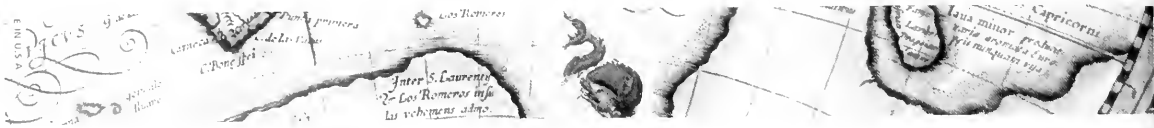

Graduate women enjoy opportunities to interact. This time they respond to an Esnopser challenge by shouting the blessings from Mount Ebal.

Dean of Women Brenda Rich and grad women RA's and floor-leaders work together to make sure every woman on campus enjoys the full benefits of life here at CIU.

What was the question again? Drs. Howell, Mulholland, Sensening, Priest, and Hamilton share their current projects in a grad chapel.

The Challenge

Cindy Reeves works grading papers. Finding a job that fits in with the demands of classwork is a need most grad students face during their time at CIU.

Sunny Lee gets ready for class to start. Our international students take on the added demand of learning in another language.

Your Brain Cells

Heather Lewis works on a paper in the computer lab.

Studying outside may not be the best thing to do on a sunny day, but for Dul're Bingham, it beats studying in the library.

A last opportunity to cram comes at breakfast. James Kent takes advantage of the one meal where there are few distractions.

An unidentified student studies in the library. The balcony above the reference section is a great people watching spot (not to mention a good place for a study break).

A grad student does his reading assignment in the few minutes between classes. Catching a few pages here and there breaks up the monotony and means less time in the library.

Scott Hunter looks positively enthusiastic about the prospects of successfully completing this assignment.

Sandy Chen works on an assignment. The library is one of the few semi-quiet places on campus in which to study.

A Day in the Life of a C.I.U. Grad Student

7:59 After getting up late seminary student Mark Paul discovers he is dressed backward!

There are two kinds of people living in this world. Morning people like Melissa Benes. . .

. . . and night people living in a day world like Kathy Small.

12:00 Joey Mask and Cynthia Finch discuss theology over lunch in the cafeteria. Lunch is the best time to socialize.

1:09 Though your evil twin may try to keep you at lunch talking-get away! Darwin Stoetz and his twin wait for class to start.

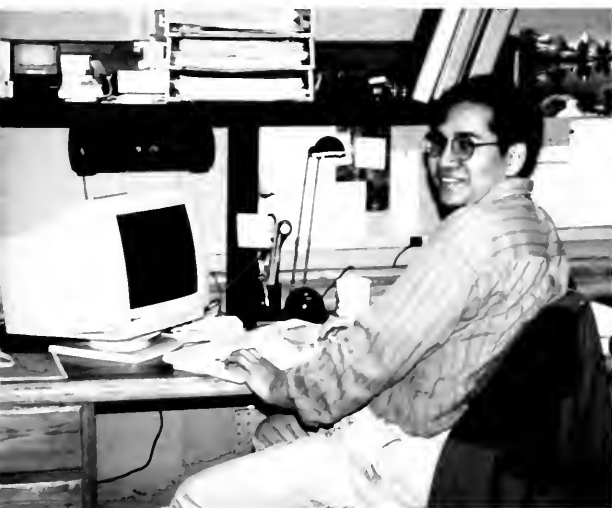

9:25 Tracy Conrad is ready for the second class of the day!

10:50 Chapel is sometimes lead by one of our own, grad student Mike Greiner.

11:40 Robert Balmer checks his mail. Checking for packages is one way to avoid the huge lines at lunch.

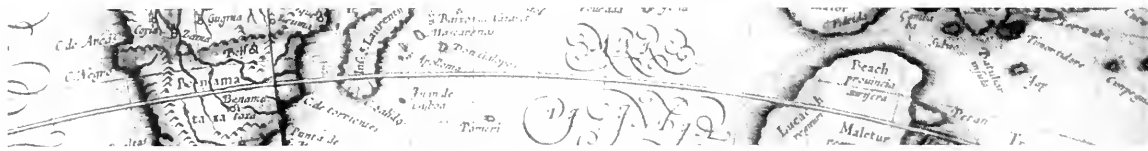

2:30 Mark Peter types up a home work assignment.

5:00 Chris Loose, Patti Koeck and Mark Twain study in the library until dinner.

3:00 Min Har settles down to do some work in the computer lab.

Chosen People Ministries

The staff and Board of Directors of Chosen People Ministries wants to congratulate the graduating seniors and the rest of the growing student body and thank them for believing God's Word . . . even "to the Jew first. . ." (Romans 1:16) at least in their prayer life, if not in their ongoing ministry.

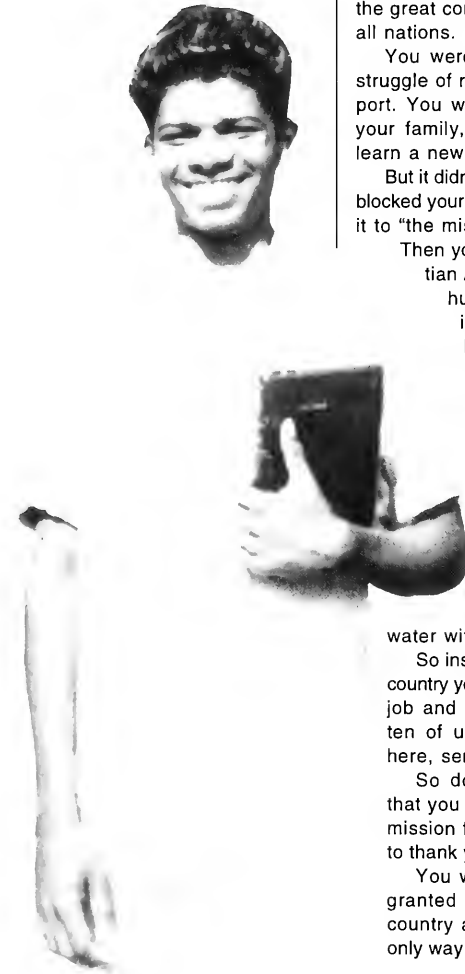

We would like to give a free gift to every present and prospective graduate, a book that will encourage you in sharing your faith with your Jewish friends, "How to Introduce Your Jewish Friends to the Messiah." Just call Chosen People Ministries at 1-800-621-7360 for your free book.

Thank You For Staying Home!

by Dhana Lama

At one time you thought you should be a foreign missionary to my country. You felt the tug of the great commission to go teach all nations.

You were willing to face the struggle of raising your own support. You were willing to uproot your family, leave your job and learn a new language.

But it didn't work out. Obstacles blocked your way. You never made it to "the mission field."

Then you heard about Christian Aid. You learned that hundreds of missionaries like me are already here, serving the Lord with indigenous missionary ministries.

We are different from you Americans.

We live on about a dollar a day. We understand our local culture, customs and languages. We eat the food and drink the water without getting sick.

So instead of coming to our country yourself, you got a good job and provided support for ten of us who were already here, serving the Lord.

So don't worry any more that you didn't make it to "the mission field." Rather, I'd like to thank you for staying home.

You would not have been granted a visa to enter my country as a missionary. The only way you could have come would have been as a "tent maker." Perhaps as a teacher of English or a medical technician. You would have been required to sign a statement saying you wouldn't "propagate your religion" while here.

Over 200 Americans have come here that way. Each one requires support of about $3000 per month. But if they tried to start a church they would be put out of the country.

Yet we native missionaries preach the gospel openly and boldly, even if we go to jail for it. We live simply and sacrificially. The $30 you send monthly for each of us provides our full support. Most of us have already planted new churches.

So thank you for staying home and sending us out instead, through Christian Aid. Please tell your friends that hundreds more have finished Bible training and are ready to go out for the Lord. Right now they are working long hours each day to support their families and provide much needed tithes for their local churches. Each time a sponsor sends $30 a month* to Christian Aid, another one can go out to the mountain villages winning souls and planting churches where none have ever been before.

Oh yes, and be sure to tell your friends that Christian Aid will send the name and photo of each pioneer native missionary they support with information about the indigenous mission with which we serve.

As God uses you to provide the means, He can use native missionaries like us to finish the task of planting churches in every tribe and nation.

*Average support in rural Asia is $30 monthly. In cities and more developed countries they may need up to $100, or even $200 per month. The missionary in the photo is not Dhana Lama, the one who wrote the article. Photo of Lama is available upon request.
